Science and technology in the Soviet Union

Poets and novelists had to emulate this example, too. Specialized secondary educational institutions train persons for work in such areas as industry, construction, transportation, communications, agriculture, public health, physical culture, education, culture, and art. The increase in the number of specialized secondary educational institutions and in enrollment is shown in Table 4.

The Soviet Cult of Childhood

Yet despite all this, there did exist a medical movement in Russia which would provide a basis for the first steps towards a socialist health care system. Primers, textbooks, and works on methodology in various languages were published in large numbers.

Education and COVID

The Institute of Asian and African Countries at Moscow State University trains philologists in the various languages and literatures of these countries. . What do you think about the Soviet efforts to make education part of real life? Now that facility was available though demand for it was extremely high.
