Electrical Contractor

Although general contractors do not need one to perform work, they likely still need a business license to operate. Missouri gives out licensing at the municipal level, and professionals must hold a license in each municipality they plan to work in.

How to become a electrical contractor: The DOL registration

When processing government applications or disbursing filing fees, we may add an order processing fee to cover our administrative expenses. Nevada requires most professionals to have a license to perform work.

License Renewal Electrical contractor licenses typically need to be renewed on an annual basis.

Contractor Registration

I had a licensed sub-contractor with a well known company in our area side our house, then made a deal with him to also do our mini-barn.
