. The E-mail message field is required. O heights too swift and dizzy yet! Thy lover me, for always I have loved thee, Even as basking babe, then happy boy alone by some wood edge, thy touching-distant beams enough, Or man matured, or young or old, as now to thee I launch my invocation.

Earth! my Likeness! poem

My tongue, every atom of my blood, form'd from this soil, this air, Born here of parents born here from parents the same, and their parents the same, I, now thirty-seven years old in perfect health begin, Hoping to cease not till death. The item may be missing the original packaging such as the original box or bag or tags or in the original packaging but not sealed. While Walt Whitman is best known as America's first great urban poet, he was also a gifted nature poet, as the selections in this book show.

Earth, My Likeness: Nature Poetry of Walt Whitman

Long, long I muse, then on my way go wandering, Many a changeful season to follow, and many a scene of life, Yet at times through changeful season and scene, abrupt, alone, or in the crowded street, Comes before me the unknown soldier's grave, come the inscription rude in Virginia's woods.
