Some evidence for these developments in intervocalic position was cited already in 4—5 above; further support is provided by the Hittite forms below, where the non-geminate reflexes of inherited voiced obstruents in 13 contrast with the geminate reflexes of voiceless obstruents in 14 : 13 a. Prague: Charles University Press 1999, Vol.

The phonology, phonetics, and diachrony of Sturtevant's Law in: Indo

Patras: University of Patras, July 2001, pp. Section 3 develops the hypothesis that StvL was a pre-Hittite sound change by which surface voiceless obstruents were subject to gemination and phonologically contrastive obstruent voicing was eliminated. Berlin — New York: de Gruyter 2004 :652—658.
