

Leading in a managerialist paradigm - A survey of perceptions within a faculty of education.

The University of Birmingham - Social accountability: a survey of perceptions and evidence of its expression at a Sub Saharan African university

Description: -

-Leading in a managerialist paradigm - A survey of perceptions within a faculty of education.

-Leading in a managerialist paradigm - A survey of perceptions within a faculty of education.

Notes: Thesis (Ed.D) - The University of Birmingham, 2004.

This edition was published in 2004

Filesize: 29.59 MB

Tags: #British #Library #ETHOS: #Leading #in #a #managerialist #paradigm #: #a #survey #of #perceptions #within #a #faculty #of #education.

British Library ETHOS: Leading in a managerialist paradigm : a survey of perceptions within a faculty of education.

In responding to the exigencies of managerialism the Faculty's organisational culture has evolved into a 'reactive bureaucracy' within which a form of 'stratified collegiality' appears to be emerging.

Leading in a managerialist paradigm (2004 edition)

The findings of this study through conduction of an evaluation exercise albeit on a small scale fills the gap for one institution but perhaps can serve as a catalyst or as an example for others in a similar context to document through self evaluation exercises what their successes and weaknesses are in the light of social accountability.

Leading in a managerialist paradigm (2004 edition)

There are weak links in the current system that retard the process of ensuring social accountability; there is a lack of feedback from the communities we serve and lack of a concerted effort by institutions to solicit for regular feedback about not only relevance of services but also for equity, quality and cost effectiveness.

Leading in a managerialist paradigm (2004 edition)

Boelen C: Challenges and opportunities for partnership in Health development. Over several decades MakCHS was the only training institution for doctors in the East African region and indeed its graduates populated most of the hospitals and Ministries of Health as leaders in health care provision.

Leading in a managerialist paradigm (2004 edition)

Quality of health care, equity issues, relevance and cost effectiveness were not mentioned. Consumers should be able to question how I use the resources that are meant for them. The key informants were deemed well positioned to provide detailed information and opinions based on their knowledge, experience and position.

Related Books

- New method for the mechanical analysis of soils.
- Commonwealth mining and metallurgical congress, eighth, Melbourne, 1965: geology of Australian ore d
- Basic issues of American democracy - a book of readings
- Opowiadania wybrane.
- Ten days wonder