Trichinellosis in wolf (Canis Lupus) in Italy

The provision of alphabetically arranged reference material follows. Recently, we described the expression of the lipolysis-stimulated lipoprotein receptor LSR in different regions of mouse brain including the hippocampus, cerebellum Purkinje cells, the ependymal cell interface between brain parenchyma and cerebrospinal fluid, the choroid plexus and the cortex. Conclusion: KPC isolates showed very few therapeutically options being tygecyclin the most active drug among those isolates.
