Plan to be off the ridge by early afternoon to avoid dangerous lightning strikes. Finish by scrambling up rocky slopes to the airy summit and forever views of the West Elks, Grand Mesa, and the snow-capped San Juan Mountains. From Eggleston Lake, head north and bear right at the Y-junction at mile 0.

Crag Crest Trail

Its 10,500-foot elevation makes it a refreshing getaway from lowland heat, and the Mesa offers miles of easily accessed trails that edge past sparkling mountain lakes.

Crag Crest Trail, Grand Mesa National Forest

At the lower elevations, the trail passes through stands of Englemann spruce, subalpine fir and open meadows.
