At the same time, he became a keen reader: favourite books included Homer's , , and 's , which served as a model for mock battles fought on a field between the farm and the reservoir. If your IP address is shown by Maxmind to be outside of Germany and you were momentarily blocked, another issue is that some Web browsers erroneously cache the block. The pleasure of wandering in a wood was so great that it could never be resisted, and did not solely arise from the instinct of shooting.

The Amateur Poacher

There, on 14 August 1887, he died of tuberculosis and exhaustion. It was on the summit of Liddington at the age of about eighteen, as he relates in The Story of My Heart, that his unusual sensitivity to nature began to induce in him a powerful inner awakening - a desire for a larger existence or reality which he termed 'soul life'. While yet the sulphurous smoke lingers, slow to disperse, over the cool dewy sward, there comes back an echo from the wood behind, then another from the mere, then another and another beyond.

The Amateur Poacher

This block will remain in place until legal guidance changes. John Richard Jefferies 6 November 1848 - 14 August 1887 was an English nature writer, noted for his depiction of English rural life in essays, books of natural history, and novels. His father was a thoughtful man with a passionate love of nature but was unsuccessful as a farmer, with the result that the later years of Jefferies' childhood were spent in a household increasingly threatened by poverty.
