Local Government Finance: 6 Jun 2007: Westminster Hall debates

They cover his very varied career; from his time at the War Office, as a soldier during the First World War, in the House of Lords and to Chairman of the National Savings Committee.

Council finance: learning the lessons of Layfield and Lyons

At last year's conference, Ministers and Ministers were queuing up to compete over their localist credentials.

Government Finance Review

For me, the litmus test is the extent to which a political party is willing to localise control over finance. It was, in some ways, quite a short time because, as we are all aware, it is a very substantial report.
