Urbanization in Latin America

Construction has a higher proportion of the industry mix in rural areas than in urban areas, with one in eight Rural area units being in that industry. These examples show why the more refined small area classification is to be preferred, if data can be produced at the appropriate geographic level.

Urban Vs. Rural Living: Which is More Fulfilling in Today's World?

Given the large numbers of people living in the city and the generally low incomes, current investment in social services is inadequate.

Explaining the Urban

Life in the City While there are certainly downsides to mass urbanization, like pollution and overcrowding, the upsides clearly outweigh the negatives for most people.

The Dramatic Global Rise of Urbanization (1950

School Funding Projected to Grow Moderately Over Next Few Years.

Urbanization and the Development of Cities

Given its very low national income and the continuing high proportion of people in rural areas, it will be very difficult to give strategic priority to urban development, even in the capital city of Vientiane.

The Social and Fiscal Consequences of Urban Decline

Under our projections, most counties that have been declining in recent years would experience even greater declines in the future, and many counties that have been growing would begin to experience small declines Figure 2. LAUSD declined by 16 percent over this period.
