

Access to government in the computer age - an examination of state public records law

American Bar Association - State of State Public Records Laws

Description: -

-

Library conferences

Libraries -- Poland

Libraries -- Special collections -- Poland

Preaching

Confidential communications -- United States

Privacy, Right of -- United States

Freedom of information -- United States

Government information -- United States

Data protection -- Law and legislation -- United States

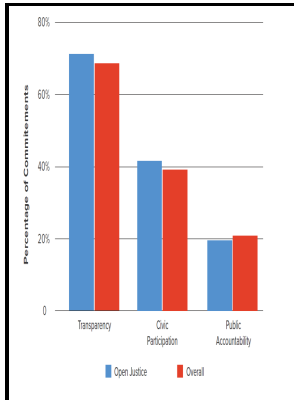

Electronic records -- Access control -- United States -- States

Public records -- Access control -- United States -- States
Access to government in the computer age - an examination of state public records law

-Access to government in the computer age - an examination of state public records law

Notes: Includes bibliographical references and index.

This edition was published in 2007

Filesize: 22.37 MB

Tags: #Table #of #contents #for #Access #to #government #in #the #computer #age

3.4 Federalism in the Information Age

The application of this criterion is particularly problematic, however, because it requires the archivist to become a soothsayer, predicting the research needs of the future users of archives. I gather that consensus among European privacy officials holds that privacy is not adequately protected in the States. The Appraisal of Modern Public Records.

3.4 Federalism in the Information Age

Table of contents for Access to government in the computer age Table of contents for Access to government in the computer age : an examination of state public records law : by Martha Chumbler.

MRSC

But the technology was not at fault, Solove reminds us. Congress created the Federal Trade Commission in 1915 to promote a free market economy. In the semi-active phase, during which records are used less frequently but are occasionally necessary for the conducting of business, records may be transferred to a central records management office or an off-site facility for storage.

Public Records

So my wife might roll her eyes when I grab an air microphone and pretend I can sing like Frank Sinatra, but I would never act like the Chairman of the Board on my front porch. As chair of the House Special Subcommittee on Government Information, Moss spent eleven years presiding over hearings and publishing reports that exhaustively documented the secrecy practices of the executive branch. This fear is a product of U.

State of State Public Records Laws

Therefore, the appeals court returned the case yet again to the district court.

Related Books

- Giobbe
- Sam Syntaxs description of the cries of London, as they are daily exhibited in the streets.
- Teaching in American schools - a handbook for the future teacher
- Oagiossten ouasigkton.
- Cargaleiro, desenhos, 1954-1985