travels and curious collections of Richard Pococke, Bishop of Meath

The ties thus formed in New Bedford were never even loosened by his departure thence, when called to King's Chapel in 1845. It is difficult to see how greater inducements could be offered to those who, possessing family and historical papers, would desire to see them where they will be entirely safe and their historical value appreciated.

STRACHIE FAMILY OF SUTTON COURT, PENSFORD, NR. BRISTOL

The Episcopal Liturgy is established by the authority of the General Conven- tion, which every Episcopal clergyman is boimd to obey. Throughout the eighteenth century, with decreasing numbers, and for the greater part of the time with straitened means, the College never ceased to produce men who gained distinction in letters or science or politics.
