Alas, this is a list of what is not happening, as reforms targeting the precariat, women, and youth are inadequate. For this reason, efforts are made by Japanese companies to increase the localization of parts and materials so that they can have greater freedom to sell products anywhere in Europe. On the whole there seems to be an increasing trend towards localization in production.

Japanese Business Management: Restructuring for Low Growth and Globalisation (Sheffield Center for Japanese Studies Routledge)

This dimension is another important socioeconomic issue, although it is not investigated in this chapter. In essence, then, the two predominant trends in the world political economy, globalization and regionalization, are reshaping profoundly the political economy of Japan.
