Book Launch

Women activists and NGOs such as the Society of Azerbaijani Women for Peace and Democracy in the Caucasus directed by Rena Safaraliev have been playing an active role in peacemaking. Post-Soviet Women Encountering Transition studies these problems through a series of essays by social scientists from the United States, Europe, and the former Soviet Union, going beyond coverage of Russia and ethnic Russians to treat Armenia, Azerbaijan, Belarus, Kazakhstan, Ukraine, Uzbekistan, and the Tatar and Sakha Republics of Russia.

Women, Civil Society, and NGOs in Post

They are fighting unemployment, political exclusion, and social marginalization by asserting their presence in both formal politics and the informal civic arena, especially NGOs. The social role of an Uzbek woman is frequently defined within the context of patriarchal values and is considered secondary and inferior to that of men. Inappropriate The list including its title or description facilitates illegal activity, or contains hate speech or ad hominem attacks on a fellow Goodreads member or author.

Will the Market Set Them Free? Women, NGOs, and Social Enterprise in Ukraine

She argued that women lack voice in the process of nation-building and have very little opportunity to influence the agendas of international donor agencies. Kathleen Kuehnast, Research Associate, Institute of European, Russian and Eurasian Studies, The George Washington University; former Title VIII-Supported Research Scholar, Kennan Institute; and member, Kennan Institute Advisory Council; Carol Nechemias, Associate Professor of Public Policy, The Pennsylvania State University At a recent Kennan Institute seminar, Kathleen Kuehnast of The George Washington University and Carol Nechemias of The Pennsylvania State University discussed their edited volume Post-Soviet Women Encountering Transition: Nation-Building, Economic Survival, and Civic Activism. This repositioning is influenced by actors at the local, national, and international levels.

Women in (post)socialist Europe (18 books)

The only content we will consider removing is spam, slanderous attacks on other members, or extremely offensive content eg. Of these 200 active NGOs, 37 are women-focused groups and 30 are aimed at youth. The recent surge of interest in civil society building, especially in non-partisan and non-governmental organizations, may reflect a new dynamism toward democratization in this country.
