Charbonnet —as a crank whose recommendations are tantamount to witchcraft. On June 14, 1940, when the German army entered an undefended Paris, the seemingly unstoppable Nazi forces took full control of the city.

The 19th

Encouraged by this discovery, Pasteur soon broadened the scope of his driving purpose. Pasteur understood the Talmud to be teaching that the way to cure infectious ailments was to introduce small amounts of the infection into the organism, and he hypothesized that an infected body produces antibodies, which could then attack an invading infection.
