☐ ☐ La chute de la IVème République en mai 1958

Nevertheless, when the supreme pontiff himself put his signature to the controversial declaration an hour or so later, the French traditionalist prelate followed suit, presumably as an act of submission of his private judgment to that of the Vicar of Christ. A major area of concern at the council was the debate about the principle of. CS1 maint: bot: original URL status unknown , Envoy Magazine, Volume 4.

☐ ☐ La chute de la IVème République en mai 1958

On 20 February 1766, Duval de Soicourt and two other local judges handed down the sentence: at Regarding Jean-Francois Lefebvre, chevalier de La Barre, we declare him convicted of having taught to sing and sung impious, execrable and blasphemous songs against God; of having profaned the sign of the cross in making blessings accompanied by foul words which modesty does not permit repeating; of having knowingly refused the signs of respect to the Holy Sacrament carried in procession by the priory of Saint-Pierre; of having shown these signs of adoration to foul and abominable books that he had in his room; of having profaned the mystery of the consecration of wine, having mocked it, in pronouncing the impure terms mentioned in the trial record over a glass of wine which he held in his hand and then drunken the wine; of having finally proposed to Petignat, who was serving mass with him, to bless the cruets while pronouncing the impure words mentioned in the trial record.

I have already refuted it, but lies die hard; there is not one word of truth in the page of that magazine you photocopied for me. This is an English translation of the original French.

Philippe Lefebvre

It is sometimes claimed that it added the relatively standard stipulation that la Barre be tortured just before being executed. On 25 May 1929 he was by Cardinal in the in Rome. In 1969, he received permission from the local bishop to establish a seminary in Fribourg which opened with nine students, moving to , Switzerland in 1971.
