Too close? Too far? Just right? False dichotomies and Canada

Then you snitched on me to the cops and let them collect a rape kit on you, and now I'm going to prison and every bit of it is your fault! Canadians, however, are endlessly aware of, and pass judgment on, the United States, its culture, society, woes and triumphs. AND there is no provision or ruling or judicial decree specifying that the government must process applications within a reasonable period of time. Which, again, leads to some of the more complex elements of what is at stake, what the law prescribes, and what remedies may be available.

How to Choose From The Best Strength Training Programs

It seems a little cherry-picky to me. See also Wisdom of the Crowd, and The Big Lie Technique.

Pierre Elliott Trudeau and nuclear arms control : Canadian approaches to the nuclear world, 1978

This fallacy creates a false dichotomy between reason and emotion and thus implicitly favors those who are not personally involved or emotionally invested in an argument, e.

Too close? Too far? Just right? (2006 edition)

This is the key date, we must continue our efforts to ensure that something changes before this date The least of things would be an announcement with clear dates, and even better: An online resumption of the tests.

Reginald C. Stuart

I just tried to explain that in Sweden the strategy is decided by the health authority — not the government. However, these fallacies are occasionally self-interested, driven by the egotistical ambitions of academics, politicians and would-be group leaders anxious to build their own careers by carving out a special identity group constituency to the exclusion of existing broader-based identities and leadership.

Dr. Reginald Stuart

What, do you think our country's so innocent? Not even the slightest shred.

Dr. Reginald Stuart

That proves you're wrong and I'm right! I do not know where you have got the death rate numbers from. The uber rich get richer and the rest get poorer.

Citizenship test: Collective action required, or expect endless delays, years. Example of the effective lobbyng of people awaiting spousal sponsorship

BUT this is NOT applicable to citizenship applications.
