The cooperative movement is a distinct and separate historic bloc with alternative meanings and practices. It is the largest cooperative formation and convenes the national summits every two years. The reality is that the world is polarized into two forces: an information elite that controls and manages the high tech global economy and on the other, the permanently displaced workers with few prospects for a meaningful employment.

Prof. Virginia A. Teodosio, Ph.D.

This paper was presented at the International Symposium on Rubber held in June 1973 in Sri Lanka.
