Korean Nongak

Dancing includes choreographic formations and streamer dances while actors wearing masks and peculiar outfits also perform funny skits. Pungmul was added to the intangible cultural heritage list in November 2014. It was well received by audience members, and a second performance was soon held three months later.

Pungmul

Nongak is a popular performing art derived from communal rites and rustic entertainments. During the event, a number of events have been prepared, so come out and enjoy the energetic performances with your family! All expressions are the result of role-based self-analysis.
