Biz China Weekly: Industrial output, retail sales, investment, FDI

On what can be done to further develop the shariah funds industry, Akmal points out that the biggest challenge for the industry lies within the Islamic financial ecosystem itself, which is very much in its nascent stage compared with the conventional side, which is more mature.

2019Q1: The Challenge to Sustaining Momentum

It is here that the population, which is a boon in terms of human capital, becomes a bane. In the event of conflict of interest among sponsors, the task of the project counsel is to remain neutral clearly, however this is an embarrassing situation and to act in the best interests of the project, that is subjectively speaking, the interest of the project company.

1. Asia's Momentum Is Set to Continue : Regional Economic Outlook, April 2014, Asia and Pacific : Sustaining the Momentum: Vigilance and Reforms:

In China, reforms to liberalize the financial system and raise the cost of capital are key to improving resource allocation, reducing the dependence of the economy on credit, and rebalancing growth away from investment. Moderating economic activities and heightened policy risks are clouding global economic prospects.

Indeed, a major effect of the financial revolution was the integration of local credit markets, most visibly the two capital centers of Gothenburg and Stockholm. Akmal says this, in turn, can spark growth for the industry, as demand will grow with broader appeal. The simulation results suggest that exports and current account balances across most countries in the region benefit from the rising consumption in China.

This is a considerable achievement given the Movement Control Order MCO and Recovery Movement Control Order RMCO in Q2 and Q3 of last year, respectively. The answer, if there is one, lies in the agreements between sponsors mentioned in the previous section; otherwise this opens a negotiation subphase in the project development that is part of the previous stage in terms of structure, though not in terms of time. The answer is apparent in two measures: that shows the size of two monetary variables: the amount of narrow money in circulation M0 and the broad money supply illustrated in Figure 26.

That this was also a period of positive structural contributions from manufacturing is probably due to the recovery of industrial employment after the brief but crippling power-related recession of 1990—1992. With inflation risk being put on the back burner, BNM is expected to focus on sustaining domestic demand to counter the impact of moderating global growth on exports.

Kementerian Perdagangan Antarabangsa dan Industri

Our model indicates slower growth in incremental demand. Despite the increase in warehouse demand, slower growth is anticipated. Their contention was that they were being charged to use a road built on land acquired from them. In the next five years, the annual demand growth rate will likely decline to a little below 0.
