Homonationalist/Orientalist Negotiations: The UK Approach to Queer Asylum Claims

On 6 January, the Independent reported that two deportation flights are due to depart this week: one to Romania on 13 January; and one to Poland on 14 January.

Media and Their Role in Shaping Public Attitudes Towards Migrants

The law also prohibits health-care providers from providing illegal surgeries, ultrasounds to determine the sex of the fetus that are not medically necessary, sex-selective abortions, fake medical identification, and fake birth certificates. The Roman Catholic Church reported it continued to operate in the territory as a pastoral district directly under the authority of the Vatican.

European migrant crisis

They knowingly said and printed things that were untrue, for example that Britain sends £350 million a week to Brussels, that it would have to join an EU army, that it would be liable for eurozone bail-outs and that Turkey was joining the EU. Authorities sometimes held pretrial detainees with convicted prisoners. The chances of No Deal have diminished, said others.

Public attitudes towards asylum seekers and refugees

In a joint 2014-2018 report for the UN Committee against Torture, Ukrainian Helsinki Human Rights Union, Regional Center for Human Rights, and Media Initiative for Human Rights reported religious activists were among victims of torture. The number of halal-certified restaurants and hotels increased from 120 to 160 during the year. Authorities stated that a suicide bomber collaborated with the Muslim Brotherhood to carry out the attack, a claim Muslim Brotherhood spokesmen denied.
