NCERT Gist: GROWTH OF NEW INDIA

Numerous individuals, reform societies and religious organisations worked hard to spread education among women, to encourage widow remarriage, to improve the living conditions of widows, to prevent marriage of young children, to bring women out of the purdah, to enforce monogamy and to enable middle-class women to take up professions or public employment. What I was taking on is what every religion faces at some state: the fear of change. It should also be noted that Nixon took some positive steps on the issue of civil rights.
