Lincolnshire Family History Resources

These records are useful for tracing seamen and passengers coming into or going out of the country. The surname Gastrell is on the rare list. Would be interested in similar descendants in case we can identify DNA.

Carlton Castle, Lincolnshire

As Wendy forwards further information, this page will of course be updated.

Pre

The only children of this couple are found at Gosberton.

Lincolnshire Genealogy Records

Her records are mostly 19th century. An alternative story suggests that Gastrell believed this action would lessen the value of the property and the amount of tax he would have to pay. The Index column shows the relative probability of finding someone called DOUCE in this county or town, compared with the probability of finding them anywhere in Britain as a whole.

William & Elizabeth Cullen of Lincolnshire, England

Occupational surnames linked to common professions such as Smith and Baker enjoyed a natural head-start when last names first started to be recorded in the 13 th and 14 th centuries Henry VIII making it compulsory for marital births to be recorded under the surname of the father : unusual names linked to localised topography or more niche professions were always going to be fewer in number.

Beckingham, Lincolnshire

Also includes some records from individuals who died abroad. Extra Info: More counties will be added in the coming months.
