It is very enlightening to see the different things by these men and note the development through the different periods, see the way they changed.

Season's Greetings: Christmas Cards by L.L. FitzGerald

Being primarily a teacher, he was too prone to academicism, too concerned with theories and methods. I have been unable to find any documentation on the publisher or dates of printing. The binding on the book is opposite of the writing inside.

Glutaminolysis and Transferrin Regulate Ferroptosis

On June 11, 1930, FitzGerald wrote in his diary,. Predominantly black-and-white and often made on delicate Japan paper, these works were characterized by their flecks that produced a brilliant effect of glowing light. Thank goodness I have been face to face with a few of these and have managed to scramble over the top each.
