Pol Pot and Khmer Rouge had long been supported by the CCP and ; it is estimated that at least 90 per cent of the foreign aid to Khmer Rouge came from , with 1975 alone seeing at least 1 billion in interest-free economic and military aid from China. SENG: There are reasonable people within this regime who are keeping quiet out of practical reasons for survival's sake. Vietnamese Foreign Minister Nguyen Co Thach urged all parties involved to separate Kampuchean problems into internal and external aspects.

A Cambodian American Lawyer On The Importance Of Resistance

However, behind the scenes, Kampuchean leaders continued to fear what they perceived as Vietnamese expansionism. Despite facing such heavy odds, Kampuchea showed no signs of hesitation as its military continued to assault Vietnam's border regions.
