The most ridiculous of these is the alleged poisoning of 3,000 warriors by US government agents at a feast following a land cession in 1851, a tale supposedly told by an old man on his deathbed and clearly shown impossible by the facts, which the authors seem to dispense with outright as having been tainted by the hand of the white man. The Quartz Valley Rancheria of Karok, Shasta, and Upper Klamath Indians is a federally recognized tribal entity.
