Hispanic and Latino Americans are the largest ethnic minority, comprising an estimated 18% of the population.

American Racial and Ethnic Politics in the 21st Century: A cautious look ahead

How will these demographic changes affect racial politics? However, many other responses are captured by the category. This chapter also looks at personal experiences with discrimination and the extent to which people of different backgrounds say their family talked to them about challenges or advantages they might face because of their race and ethnicity when they were growing up. Blacks feel most in common with Latinos, who feel least in common with them.
