Several of the veterans you interviewed detailed the racism they encountered before, during and after the war. They are not the best quality, but I am going to transcribe them and have a written copy as well. Photos and objects can be very valuable during an interview in joggin memories.

A terribly creepy story my grandpa used to tell me about his experience in World War II (warning: really long, but it pays off) : nosleep

And somewhere around the age I am now, things started to, you know, turn in the other direction. In a study of the 1952 election carried out by Survey Research Center of the University of Michigan, it was evident that charisma was not the main determinant of candidate choice among the respondents interviewed Davies, 1954. He also details how Mark Noah and History Flight became involved in the search for remains on the island.

Some time afterwards, World War II erupted and the geisha houses were forced to close.

Obama's grandfather's war service revealed

They ran as fast as they could in pursuit, through the melting snow and ice in the dead of night screaming at whatever it was to stop. To Ned, the pouch is a remembrance of his family, home, and faith.

Interview with Holocaust survivor Max Eisen

There are many good resources for World War 2 history online. You're never going to be able to forget that.

World War 2 (WW2) Records

Robert Thacker Colonel Robert Thacker of El Centro, California Zach Coco On December 7, 1941, pilot received orders to fly a B-17 bomber from Seattle to the Philippines, stopping midway to refuel at Hickam Field, a base near Pearl Harbor.
