Table 5.11 from Incomes in and out of work : a cohort study of newly unemployed men and women

After excluding 9835 men with prevalent cancer except C44: non-melanoma skin cancer , and 2 men censored on entry day, these analyses included a total of 219 335 men. The aetiology of prostate cancer is not well understood, and the well-established risk factors age, ethnicity, and family history of the disease are not modifiable ;.

The Nature of Unemployment in Britain

Our finding that diabetes was associated with a reduced risk of prostate cancer has been consistently reported in other cohort studies ;.

Background: Prostate cancer is the most common cancer in British men but its aetiology is not well understood.

The nature of unemployment in Britain: Studies of the DHSS cohort

Early life factors relative age of first facial hair, relative age voice broke, and comparative body size and height at age 10 and hair colour and pattern were not associated with prostate cancer risk.

Frank Barry : Trinity Business School

Moreover, compared to men with no family history of prostate cancer, men with both their father and brother diagnosed with prostate cancer had an even higher risk of prostate cancer 3.
