Supporting gender mainstreamed policies, programmes and actions in the fight against small arms trafficking and misuse, in line with the Women, Peace and Security agenda

In 2013, OCHA became a signatory to the global Call to Action on Protection from GBV in Emergencies, including implementing actions in the five-year road map. CERF has also funded training of hundreds of field staff and service providers on GBV. They will be equipped with ideas on how to develop gender-sensitive small arms control measures based on the knowledge that the impact of armed violence and armed conflict affects men, women, boys and girls differently.

Securing Soft Targets and Crowded Places

Aware of the fact that the effective control of the illicit circulation of weapons requires competent and accountable security forces, ECOWAS members recognize the necessity to give appropriate training to West African armed and security forces.

NAVSEA Instructions Library

It was noted to be read in conjunction with SS 106 also available to download. Some have sought to define such transactions as 'illicit', although there is no international legal definition of the term
