Edward Gibbon (part 1)

Why should any of us bother ourselves about this new religion of Liberty and Equality? Modern estimates go much higher and suggest that one out of every five persons was a devotee of Christ. Cannon and fortifications now form an impregnable barrier against the Tartar horse; and Europe is secure from any future irruption of Barbarians; since, before they can conquer, they must cease to be barbarous. He also spent some time in studying anatomy under Hunter, and attending lectures upon chemistry.

Today in Masonic History

Reading Gibbon's chapters on the various aspects of Christianity -- its origin and growth; its institutions; its theology and theological discords; its heroes, heretics, and villains -- one cannot fail to be overwhelmed by his vast knowledge of the subject.

It teaches that all are to be tolerated, for all are matters of opinion. The modest, the sober, and the learned are seldom preferred; and the nomenclators, who are commonly swayed by interested motives, have the address to insert in the list of invitations the obscure names of the most worthless of mankind.

Edward Gibbon historian Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire biography

In his History, he quotes not only the Church Fathers where it is relevant, but also the historians, the biographers, the travelers, the geographers, the natural scientists, the life scientists, etc.
