Cleo was given the role by producer Reg Watson after press coverage of racial tensions in the Birmingham area at that time.

7 Cancelled Soap Operas We Wish Would Return

Meg, played by actress Noele Gordon, waved a fond farewell to her screen daughter Jill, played by Jane Rossington, from the stern of the liner QE2. That is the way I want to go. It appeared to be a fairly socially-realistic tableau of life in a Northern English town, slightly dramatised.

Soap actors join forces to bring comedy drama to life in Storyline

At the halfway commercial-break point however, the programme was interrupted to hand over to ITV News for then very sketchy details of the developing situation in the USA. In true Crossroads style, disappeared in the mid 1970s without a word of explanation in the storyline. The series was reduced to four episodes a week from November 2001 until January 2002.

Six soap operas which were canned

Other additions included Meg's close friend, former actress, Tish Hope; the suave manager and later motel director David Hunter; his first wife Rosemary and son Chris and his second wife Barbara; chefs Mr.
