Mind in Action

How do our thoughts shape our experiences? I defend the view that at least some mental states and processes—or at least some parts of some mental states and processes—are at times visible, capable of being directly perceived by others. Dogs can only produce puppies.

Mind in the Making

It's been estimated that we have 60,000 separate thoughts each day. My experience of an event has to do with the ideas, thoughts, beliefs, and attitudes I hold about the event rather than the event itself.

Finally, she was suffering from a toothache of such severity that she agreed to have a dentist come to her home to see if he could help her. Importance of Preparing Our Minds It's important to prepare our minds, because God commands it 1 Pet. There is a wonderful story that I wish I could give credit to from whomever I heard it.

Mind in Action

That the environment can be used in this fashion, as an externalized extension of memory, is not surprising.

Bede Rundle, Mind in Action

Since thoughts are energy, our thoughts must affect us. For example, consider the work of Edward Tolman 1932, 1948.
