Alderman Lawrence had had much pleasure in being present at the opening of these schools in the summer of 1868; the society had also contributed £1,000 and £200 a year to the Coleraine Academical Institution. Londonderry and the London companies, 1609

Maguire in his able speech had pointed out that the Commission of 1854 found great faults with the past management of the society, and went so far as to recommend the winding-up of the society and the substitution for it of another body; but the Commissioners suggested a mode of constituting such body, which he believed had not been generally considered satisfactory. Unfortunately that model does not appear to have survived, and much of the built fabric of the Estate has been deplorably treated, with hampisted alterations, vilely inappropriate details, and unassailable aesthetic insensitivity. Not the least of these was the granting of leases to Lemuel Cox 1736-1806 and Jonathan Thompson fl.
