The mechanism of morphogenesis in a phase

For example, the downy-type feathers in newborns are converted to contour feathers later in life. The gut forms first as a short cylinder halfway across the blastocoel.

Modeling and Solving of Topology Optimization Problem with Minimizing Strain Energy Objective Subject to Weight Constraint For the topology optimization problem with minimizing structural strain energy as an objective subject to a specified weight constraint, the optimization model can be established by the ICM method as the following process.

Establishment of lateral organ asymmetries in the invertebrate chordate, Ciona intestinalis

In other words, at any given T 4 something radical happens, not only to structure but also to agency.

The primary mesenchyme later secrete the sea urchins endoskeleton. The filopodia make contact with the blastocoel wall, adhere and the cell moves toward the point of contact. Basal lamina another ECM is made.
