Semi Micro Qualitative Analysis

Starting around 1918 a second Austrian chemist, by the name of Fritz Feigl , decided to do for qualitative analysis what Pregl had done for combustion analysis, the results of which were first summarized in his 1931 monograph Qualitative Analyse mit Hilfe von Tüpfelreaktionen. While it is true that all living systems, through their ability to break down poisonous substances into reusable chemical building blocks, have great power of detoxification, provided that the system does not become overloaded.
