Recommendations have included new governance regimes, such as community-based management or comanagement, and increased use of local fishery knowledge.

CAB Direct

Worldwide, the management and governance of small-scale fisheries is in urgent need of reform One of the reasons for this neglect is that fisheiyl science has largely been devoted to stock assessment, with a geographical focus on countries of the North and a disciplinary focus on biology and, to some extent, economics. Most small-scale fisheries have not been well managed, if they have been managed at all. Considering that the US is already a world leader in EM for larger vessels, we believe it can extend that leadership into EM for small-scale fisheries as well.
