Shotgun Ammo

For an intricate design, try featuring blue waves made out of blue paper. To ready finds for crafting and display, scrape them out if needed, cover with water in a pot, and boil for five minutes. Set the tray on a low table, and enjoy a quiet drink on the patio.

Others have just an artful cluster of barnacles, as if the vessel survived a shipwreck and lay undiscovered for years on the ocean floor.

SCHEELS: Discover Your Passion

Use small cushions of polymer clay, which is pliable and slightly sticky, to test out various arrangements. Fossils that have been polished present a modern look while unpolished fossil seashells offer a more raw display for you to delight in.

Consider Etsy stores, like and , for responsibly sourced ones, or hit farmers' markets and seafood wholesalers to nab empties for cheap or even free.

Shotgun Ammo

Start by filling a tub halfway with sand. Deep shells, such as scallops, clams, and quahogs, work best and burn the longest. To make one, whitewash and sand a wrought-iron candleholder.
