John Dudley, 2nd Earl of Warwick

His standing was uncertain: he was apparently on approval for a junior partnership, but lacked the necessary capital and was plagued by ill health. Edgbaston was held of Roger de Somery in 1235 as half a fee. .

Edward Seymour

In 1563 Elizabeth I granted it to her favourite, Robert Dudley, Earl of Leicester, who converted the castle into a lavish palace fit to entertain his queen.

John Dudley, Duke of Northumberland, 1504

His son Thomas was lord of Witton in 1478 and left a son Henry East of Hay Hall in Yardley, who sold the manor to John Bond of Coventry. His petition stated that he was John Sutton's heir, as Edward, Elizabeth and Jane had no children.

Thomas Dudley

Soon after his arrival in the colony Dudley settled at later Cambridge , which he helped found.
