Remote Treatment (Telehealth) for Allied Health Professions during the Coronavirus Outbreak (COVID)

Voice Therapy using Telecommunication Technology 12 24. Patients felt emotional comfort when staff displayed ability and confidence in performing task; developed relationships through frequent contact and getting to know each other as people; were available and responded quickly to calls for assistance; provided information openly and honestly; used nonverbal interactions such as eye contact, touch, active listening, and positioning to enhance communication; and engaged in verbal interactions such as social chitchat and making encouraging comments.

The National Commission for Allied and Healthcare Professions Bill, 2020

Make it a point to be there for them, a presence of peace and understanding. Crossing your arms sends a message that you are closed off, uninterested or confrontational. The State Councils will consist of i the Chairperson at least 25 years of experience in the field of allied and healthcare science , ii one member representing medical sciences in the state government, iii two members representing state medical colleges, iv two members representing charitable institutions, and v two members from each of the recognised categories of allied and healthcare professions, nominated by the state government, among others.

Therapeutic communication for health care professionals

Be mindful to put things so they are easy to understand, but without coming across as condescending.
