Herring girls ~ Girl Museum

Small and tasty, people used to fry, smoke or cure them.

Fishing industry in Scotland

The restoration Tom Moncrieff sees his dream realised at last The Swan Trust was formed in 1990 and the dream of restoring part of Shetland's maritime tradition was made possible. But all that was in the future.

Fish Wives and Herring Girls

The Scarborough fishing industry was more of an illusion than reality.

How Scotland erased Guyana from its past

In 1864 400 ships were at the port of Scarborough but only 100 inside the harbour - 300 fishing smacks stood outside. How a ye the day, me hinny-o? New ideas would spread fast and new people were welcomed.
