The opportunity to learn it a little more on the museum in itself. A talented draftsman known for his serpentine line and impeccably rendered, illusionistic textures, he was at the center of a revived version of the ancient debate: is line or color the most important element of painting? In truth, his work is best understood as a hybrid between Neoclassicism and Romanticism. As soon as you enter the courtyard, the glass pavilions streamline the visitor routes and mark the entry into the 21st century of the building, classified as a monument historique, whose facades, bays and roofs have been completely renovated.
