A piece of silver was a day's wage in the New Testament. The only way America would run no trade deficit is if foreigners spent all of these dollars buying goods and services from Americans.

Is the media engaging in psychological warfare against America?

Basically, they are a liability to the name of Jesus Christ. Conflict is, of course, not a perfect indicator of decreasing numbers of Christians in the Middle East, as Lebanon provides a striking example of a country in which Christians were once the majority but have now dropped into minority status. Nigeria is the latest country where Twitter has become a political lightning rod, with citizens caught up in a larger debate about free speech on social media.

Is the media engaging in psychological warfare against America?

Conflict and the Stability of the Church The almost constant unrest does not create an atmosphere conducive to the stability of the Church and subsequent growth that arises out of that stability. The publication — in its various forms — is produced for anyone who cares about the progress of the human endeavor around the world and seeks news reported with compassion, intelligence, and an essentially constructive lens.

The Problem With Most Christians

PLoS Negl Trop Dis, 2008. Would you want someone to feel like they ought not force their beliefs on you? In a country with high unemployment rates, many young people have taken to trading on sites like Twitter and Instagram. We have every right to speak out with contempt against contemptible things.
