Isle of Wight visitor guide

Attendance has been estimated by the Guinness Book of Records to have been 600,000 or even 700,000, due to an announcement by British Rail at that time concerning the amount of sold ferry tickets, although promoter Ray Foulk has said he believes it to have been only half of that. This was by far the largest of these early festivals and the unexpectedly high attendance levels led, in 1971, to adding a section to the Isle of Wight County Council Act 1971 preventing overnight open-air gatherings of more than 5,000 people on the island without a special licence from the council. Except perhaps in the summer, when the Isle of Wight Festival draws visitors from all over the world.
