East Griqualand Region

Lying in the Umzimhlava River Basin between Mount Currie and the Ngele Mountains, Kokstad is the largest town in the region and is home to people of all cultural groups, including the descendants of the original Griqua people. However, tourism in the Drakensberg is developing, with a variety of, hotels, and resorts appearing on the slopes. Visitors work side by side with farm workers to learn everyday farming activities such as milking and sheep-shearing.
