The great Indian urban waste problem: facts you should know

The capital city, Ouagdougou, now collects an average of 78% of waste generated, which is significantly higher than the 46% average in Sub-Saharan Africa. Systems are in use in Europe and North America.

The great Indian urban waste problem: facts you should know

According to adaptative economics Ostrom, 2007 , the diffusion of this kind of performance evaluation tool represents a powerful evolutionary path for sustainable transitions, since collective decisions - through time and collective learning - cause desired transformations. The process of waste segregation should be explained to the community.

Other gardens depend on sponsoring by foundations and companies. A large portion of waste management practices deal with MSW which is the bulk of the waste that is created by household, industrial, and commercial activity.

Small Scale Composting

. . Committee activities fall under two headings: formal work meetings and lectures and information work meetings and training.
